Letter Soup

by Cathlyn Brook

☒ Somewhere in Hungary, there lives a journalist, who commuting to work day by day, has explored a huge amount of experience over the years. Everything that does not fit into the framework of journalism, is published in a book under the name Cathlyn Brook.

And somewhere on the pages of the 'Letter Soup' there lives another journalist, named Molly, successful in her profession, and a happy person every now and then, although both her private and professional lives are exciting even shocking.

The two worlds of these two characters are blending into one in 'Letter Soup'. The story is based on experiences happened in the 21st century, the inner thoughts are the confessions of the writer herself, embedded into the heart of the main character.

The story spans two years in the life of Molly. The novel contrasts the small town with the big world spiced with black humour. Important and less important people, Hungarian and European locations, faithfulness and cheating are pictured in the story.

Cathlyn's Brook 'Letter Soup' is a classic book, that fits into a handbag or pocket, to have it on you when taking the bus or tube to make yourself entertained.

The book is available in Hungarian!
